If you have an interest in providing anaesthesia as part of your rural or remote medical practice, then undertaking training in an anaesthetic post could assist you. Doctors undertaking anaesthetic training will take on the roles and responsibilities of a junior anaesthetic Registrar. The post provides experience and training requirements that enable the participant to become an accredited GP anaesthetist. The GP Anaesthetic Advanced Training Course is accredited by the Joint Consultative Committee in Anaesthetics (JCCA), a tripartite committee of the Royal Australian College of General Practitioners (RACGP), the Australian College of Rural and Remote Medicine (ACRRM) and the Australian and New Zealand College of Anaesthetists (ANZCA). "The JCCA believes that doctors who wish to administer anaesthesia as part of rural or remote medical practice should acquire the skills necessary for competent independent anaesthesia practice in an approved training post for a minimum duration of 12 months...Rural practice varies from working in a large regional town or small city with some tertiary support to a single doctor community that may be geographically isolated in extreme conditions" (JCCA curriculum statement 2010). There are three pathways for applying and completing procedural training in Anaesthetics.

Pathway 1 - As a component of the FARGP

The Fellowship in Advanced Rural General Practice (FARGP) is the qualification awarded by the RACGP beyond the vocational Fellowship. It caters for both GP Registrars and practising GPs. A core requirement of the FARGP is the completion of 12 months of Advanced Rural Skills Training (ARST) in an accredited training post. You are free to choose which advanced skill or skills you wish to concentrate on although the RACGP recommends that the needs of the community also be taken into account when making the choice. If you complete relevant ARST before enrolling in the FARGP you can apply to have your training recognised. If you are enrolled in the FARGP this 12-month post would form the additional 12 months that you need to complete to meet the relevant college training requirements. MCCC offers training posts in Anaesthetics accredited by the JCCA that will fulfil the requirements of the FARGP.

Pathway 2 - As a component of the FACRRM

If you are undertaking your Fellowship of the Australian College of Rural and Remote Medicine (FACRRM) you may complete your procedural training in Anaesthetics through Advanced Skills Training (AST). If you are enrolled in the FACRRM this 12-month post would form part of the training that you need to complete to meet the relevant college training requirements. BHS Position Description – May 2017 6 MCCC offers training posts in Anaesthetics accredited by the JCCA that will fulfil the requirements of the FACRRM.

Pathway 3 - As a stand-alone training course

This 12-month procedural training post is also available to GPs as a stand-alone post-Fellowship qualification. Duration The course is usually undertaken full time for 12-months. 0.5 FTE over two years may be available at some health services. Eligibility You must be due to enter your PGY3 year or above at the commencement of the training year however in some instances applicants currently in their PGY2 year will be considered. General Registration is preferred however doctors with Limited Registration are eligible to apply, if they can demonstrate the ability to obtain appropriate registration for the training term and subsequent work as a Visiting Medical Officer at a rural health service. A commitment to rural or remote medical practice is essential as well as specialist registration as a GP, or alternatively enrolment in a pathway to fellowship.
